

Ledger Lines

Ledger lines continue the staff lines above and below the staff.

The image shows a grand staff with two staves. The treble clef staff has four notes: G (on the first line), A (in the space), B (on the second line), and C (on the second space, with a ledger line below it). The bass clef staff has four notes: B (on the second space), C (in the space), D (on the first line), and E (on the first space, with a ledger line below it). The notes are arranged in two rows of four notes each, with the first row in the treble clef and the second row in the bass clef.

Note names go up the scale in line note, space note order. (line, space, line, space, line, space and so on.)

The image shows a grand staff with two staves. The treble clef staff has a scale of notes from C to C, starting on the first line (C) and ending on the second space (C). The bass clef staff has a scale of notes from C to C, starting on the first space (C) and ending on the first line (C). The notes are arranged in two rows of 13 notes each, with the first row in the treble clef and the second row in the bass clef.